Text:

This investigation relates to the unauthorized disclosure of classified information from State Department cables which appeared in the "Washington Post" article by Jack Anderson on July 27, 1971. There were two cables involved, both classified "Confidential," which concerned alleged misbehavior in Africa on the part of [redacted] who is employed by the Agency for International Development (AID).

b6

On September 28, 1971, [redacted] Communications Center, Office of Communications, Bureau of Administration, USIS, advised that while approximately eighteen persons in the communications center were involved in processing the two cables linked to Anderson, a total of two hundred and sixteen employees in the communications center could have had access to one or both of the cables. He noted, however, that the operation of the communications center is such that access to the cables would have been logically restricted to persons involved in their processing, and that any effort to obtain a copy or gain access to these cables by any other employee would be unusual and would have been brought to the attention of a supervisory employee. Fischer stated that no such incidents were reported in connection with these two cables.

DISCLOSURES OF CLASSIFIED INFORMATION

[redacted] Communications Center, USIS, advised on September 28, 1971, that he had been informed by another USIS employee that he had seen a WTVG television program featuring Jack Anderson on the evening of Friday, September 24, 1971. According to the USIS employee, a copy of a State Department cable was visible in the background while Anderson was speaking.

[redacted] stated he had called station WTVG on September 28, 1971, concerning this program, and was advised by a female representative of the station that Anderson had appeared on a program at 10 p.m. on Friday, September 24, 1971, and had disclosed a story concerning a [redacted] from Kenya.

[redacted] Office of Security, AID, advised on September 28, 1971, that he served as [redacted] USIS, in Nairobi, Kenya, from September, 1969, until August 24, 1971, at which time he returned to the United States. [redacted] considered the possibility that the two USIS cables were leaked in Kenya was remote. He opined that the posture of the United States had not been adversely affected by the information which appeared in Anderson's column.

b7C

[redacted] for Africa, AID, [redacted] following the latter's alleged misbehavior in Kenya, was contacted on September 30, 1971. He denied having any knowledge as to the manner in which Jack Anderson obtained possession of the USIS cables involved in this matter. [redacted] stated he was not personally acquainted with Anderson or any member of his staff.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Clamping the Lid on Embarrassment

By Jack Anderson

Ever since we reported on the drunken antics of an Agency for International Development official during Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's recent visit to Kenya, AID has been tightening the lid on classified messages.

FBI agents are grilling officials and giving lie detector tests to find out who leaked the secret report. Copy machines have been moved to secured areas where they are constantly monitored.

All these precautions have been taken in the name of national security. Yet our story, which precipitated the manhunt, had nothing to do with security.

We quoted from a message that Robinson McIlvane, the American ambassador to Kenya, sent to Dr. John Hannah, the AID administrator. The message was so sensitive that it was hand-delivered to Hannah under seal. He was upset, therefore, when we printed it for 45 million Americans to read.

But the subject of the message was the hijinks of Bert Tollefson, who is in charge of the AID program in Kenya. Alleged the hush-hush message:

"The problem started with Bert's well-known pushiness and general lack of sensitivity and culminated in his getting sloshed at Treetops (a night club) making passes at the vice president's secretary and trying to drag her down the steps to meet an elephant at ground level."

Tollefson assured us by telephone from Nairobi that it was all a misunderstanding, and blamed the whole episode on unidentified Democratic holdovers.

But Hannah took urgent steps to make sure we don't get any more of his secret messages. He issued terse instructions, intended for the eyes only of those who handle sensitive documents.

As evidence that Hannah hasn't yet plugged the leak, here are his new instructions:

"The reproduction of the State's NODIS, EXDIS, and TOP SECRET and the AID's EYES ONLY and TOP SECRET messages requires the approval of the AID Executive secretary, and such reproduction can be accomplished only by the EXSEC Staff. . . .

"All reproduction and copy machines are being located in in secured areas, which will be monitored. . . . During non-working hours, all copy machines will be secured in such a way that they are inoperable."

Slow Economic Rise

Reporting to Republican congressional leaders on the economic outlook the other day, Budget Director George Shultz confided between puffs on his pipe that the economy is "moving in the right direction but not fast enough."

He reminded them that two million men had been released from the armed forces and laid off from defense production. This has had "a heavy impact" upon the economy, he said, but it is "now largely behind us."

He insisted that "inflation has topped out" and that the "economic structure clearly is strengthening."

The GOP leaders questioned President Nixon at the secret session about his economic plans. Asked about the 10 per cent surcharge on foreign imports, he replied: "Foreign nations are curious as to how long it will last. We are not going to move too quickly."

"It's important," cautioned New York's Sen. Jacob Javits, the top Republican on the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, "that we indicate our readiness to negotiate."

Colorado's Sen. Gordon Allott, the Senate Republican Conference chairman, questioned the President about tax investment credits for businessmen.

"Is the investment credit to be recommended on a temporary or permanent basis?" he asked.

"There should be an ongoing program," said Mr. Nixon. "We'll address ourselves to it in January."

The President, sipping coffee but frowning sternly as he spoke added: "Other countries ~~have used the device at times~~ to accelerate depreciation to permit their industries to compete better overseas. We will have to examine our whole plant and investment situation to improve its competitive position."

Footnote: the President mildly goaded Wisconsin's Rep. John Byrnes, the ranking Republican on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, about his "disagreement" with White House tax proposals. This was a teasing reference to Byrne's close cooperation with Chairman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.). But Byrnes predicted that the "outline" of Nixon's proposals would be left intact by the Ways and Means Committee.

Tight Squeeze

A Highway Safety official has proposed approving bus emergency exit windows that are so small an overfed American can't squeeze through.

On Aug. 2, the agency's motor vehicle section proposed a 13-by-20-inch size, far smaller than windows on modern buses. So shocked was the agency's research chief, John Edwards, that he fired off a memo pointing out that the school bus lobby recommended a minimum of 17-by-24 inches even for children.

The mini-exit Edwards wrote, "does not appear to be based on real life conditions encountered at the time of bus crashes."

OF CLASSIFIED INFORMATION

[redacted] Leak:

This investigation relates to the unauthorized disclosure of classified information from State Department cables which appeared in the "Washington Post" article by Jack Anderson on July 27, 1971. There were two cables involved, both classified "Confidential," which concerned alleged misbehavior on the part of [redacted] who is employed by the Agency for International Development (AID), in Kenya, Africa.

b6

On October 6, 1971, [redacted] Office of Press Relations, United States Department of State (USDS), Washington, D. C., advised Jack Anderson and members of his staff are not among the approximately two hundred and seventy news correspondents who are accredited to the USDS and who have access to the USDS building. [redacted] noted, however, that nothing would preclude Anderson or any member of his staff from gaining access to the USDS building by obtaining an appointment with a USDS employee.

b7C

On October 7, 1971, [redacted] General Services Division, Bureau of Administration, USDS, advised logs are not kept of visitors to the USDS building during normal working hours, which hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Visitors who enter this building after normal working hours are required to sign a log sheet at the time of entrance and must be escorted through the building to their destinations. The visitors logs were examined on October 8, 1971, for the period July 17-20, 1971, and no record was located indicating Jack Anderson or the following members of his staff visited the Department of State during that period. [redacted]

[redacted] and [redacted] However, news correspondents possessing White House passes are allowed access to the building during non-work hours without an escort.

b7C

Interviews were also conducted with twenty other employees of AIO and the USDS regarding this leak, and all individuals interviewed advised they possessed no information regarding this leak or which would serve to identify the person or persons responsible for the leak.

NOTE:

Xerox copies furnished the Honorable H. R. Haldeman, Assistant to the President, and the Honorable Egil Krogh, Jr., Deputy Assistant to the President for Domestic Affairs, at the White House, and to the Attorney General with copies to his Deputy and the Assistant Attorney General, Internal Security Division, by cover letter.
